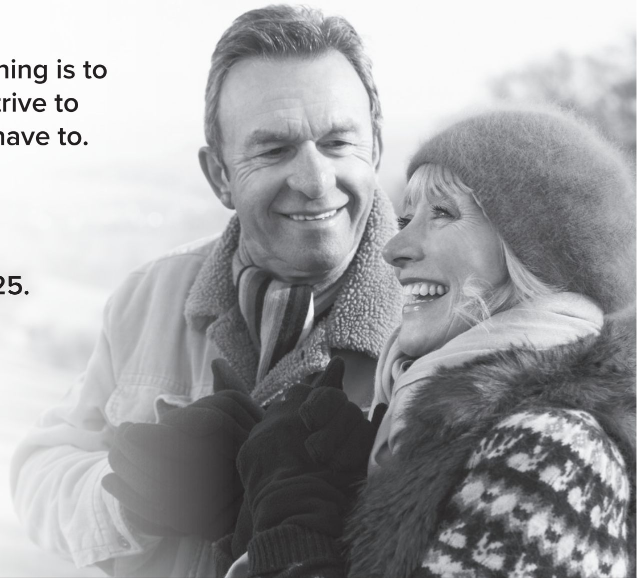
PROACTIVE YEAR-END TAX PLANNING FOR 2023 AND BEYOND

CORNERSTONE
Financial Solutions, Inc.



One of our main goals in providing comprehensive financial planning is to proactively help you recognize tax reduction opportunities. We strive to stay current on the ever-changing tax environment so you don't have to.

Other than some IRS inflation adjustments, calendar year 2023 has brought limited changes in tax laws for individuals. But the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA), enacted in 2017, included many provisions for individuals that are currently set to expire after 2025. Take a look at page 6, Looking Ahead to the 2025 Tax Sunset.

The information in this report could be helpful for tax-planning for calendar year 2023. Depending on your financial picture, you may benefit from additional tax reduction strategies that we discussed during your review appointment. Please note that this newsletter is not a substitute for using a tax professional.

YEAR-END TAX PLANNING FOR 2023

Your situation is unique and choosing the appropriate tactics will depend on your income as well as several other personal circumstances. As you read through this report it could be helpful to note those strategies that you feel may apply to your situation so you can discuss them with your tax preparer.

Evaluate the use of itemized deductions versus the standard deduction.

For 2023 tax returns, the standard deduction amounts increase to $13,850 for individuals and married couples filing separately, $20,800 for heads of household, and $27,700 for married couples filing jointly and surviving spouses.

Remember, the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act roughly doubled the standard deduction. Although personal exemption deductions are no longer available, the larger standard deduction combined with lower tax rates and an increased child tax credit could help you lower your tax bill.

CFS Guidance: Run the numbers to assess the impact on your situation before deciding to take itemized deductions. If you are working with an accountant, they should be analyzing this for you. Tax software programs like Tax Act and Turbo Tax could also help you in making this decision.

Consider bunching charitable contributions or using a donor-advised fund.

One way you can benefit from the tax advantages of charitable contributions is through a strategy referred to as bunching - the consolidation of donations and other deductions into targeted years so the deduction in those years exceeds the standard deduction.

Another strategy is a donor-advised fund, which allows you to make a charitable contribution, receive an immediate tax benefit and then recommend grants to charities from the fund over time. You can take advantage of the charitable deduction if you're at a higher marginal tax rate, while actual payouts from the fund can be deferred until later. A potential Win-Win!

CFS Guidance: Donor advised funds are especially useful in two scenarios.

- If you have a year where your income will be higher than normal and you're looking for a way to lower your taxes in that specific year.
- If you are not yet 70 ½ years old and you give a lot to charity each year but can't write much off on your taxes.
- Donors are urged to consult their attorneys, accountants or tax advisors with respect to questions relating to the deductibility of various types of contributions to a Donor-Advised Fund for federal and state tax purposes.

This guide was written with the most current information as of late October, 2023.

Review your home equity debt interest.

If you took out your mortgage after October 13, 1987, and before December 16, 2017, mortgage interest is fully deductible up to the first $1,000,000 of mortgage debt incurred to acquire or improve a qualified residence. The threshold has been lowered to the first $750,000 on homes purchased after December 15, 2017 but before January 1, 2026.

Home equity lines of credit (HELOCs) are deductible as well, but only if you used the funds to buy or substantially improve the home that secures the loan.

CFS Guidance: Please share with your tax preparer how the proceeds of your home equity loan were used. If you used the cash to pay off credit card or other personal debts the interest isn't deductible. But that may change when the TCJA sunsets at the end of 2025.

Revisit the use of qualified tuition plans.

Qualified tuition plans, also named 529 plans, are a great way to tax efficiently plan the financial burden of paying tuition for children or grandchildren to attend elementary or secondary schools. Earnings in a 529 plan originally could be withdrawn tax-free only when used for qualified higher education at colleges, universities, vocational schools or other post-secondary schools. However, they changed that so 529 plans can now be used to pay for tuition at an elementary or secondary public, private or religious school, up to $10,000 per year.

Unlike IRAs, there are no annual contribution limits for 529 plans. Instead, there are maximum aggregate limits, which vary by plan. Under federal law, 529 plan balances cannot exceed the expected cost of the beneficiary's qualified higher education expenses. Limits vary by state. Some states even offer a state tax credit or deduction up to a certain amount. Contributions to a 529 plan are considered completed gifts for federal tax purposes, and in 2023 up to $17,000 per donor, per beneficiary, qualifies for the annual gift tax exclusion. Excess contributions above $17,000 must be reported on IRS Form 709 and will count against the taxpayer's lifetime estate and gift tax exemption amount ($12.92 million in 2023).

There is also an option to make a larger tax-free 529 plan contribution, if the contribution is treated as if it were spread evenly over a 5-year period. A lump sum contribution of up to $85,000 ($17,000 x 5) can be made to a 529 plan in 2023. No other gifts can be made to the same beneficiary, however, front-end loading the gift allows for additional tax-free compounding. Parents or grandparents sometimes use this 5- year gift-tax averaging as an estate planning strategy. If you want to explore setting up a 529 plan, call us and we would be happy to assist you.

As with other investments, there are generally fees and expenses associated with participation in a 529 plan. There is also a risk that these plans may lose money or not perform well enough to cover education costs as anticipated. Most states offer their own 529 programs, which may provide advantages and benefits exclusively for their residents. The tax implications can vary significantly from state to state.

CFS Guidance: Grandparents sometimes use the 5-year gift-tax averaging as an estate planning strategy. If you want to explore setting up a 529 plan, we would be happy to assist you.

Business Owners: Maximize your qualified business income deduction (if applicable).

One of the most talked about changes from the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act enacted in 2017 is the qualified business income deduction under Section 199A. If you own interests in a sole proprietorship, partnership, LLC, or S corporation, you may be able to deduct up to 20% of your qualified business income. Please be careful because this deduction is subject to various rules and limitations.

In 2023, limits on this deduction begin phasing in for taxpayers with income above $364,200 for those married filing jointly taxpayers (and $182,000 for all other filers).

There are planning strategies to consider for business owners. For example, business owners can adjust their business's W-2 wages to maximize the deduction. Also, it may be beneficial for business owners to convert their independent contractors to employees where possible, but before doing so, please make sure the benefit of the deduction outweighs the increased payroll tax burden and cost of providing employee benefits. Other planning strategies can include investing in short-lived depreciable assets, restructuring the business, and leasing or selling property between businesses.

CFS Guidance: This piece of tax legislation is complicated; we could take an entire report to discuss it fully. If you are a business owner, we recommend you talk with a qualified tax professional about how this new Section 199A could potentially work to your benefit.

Continuing Tax Changes for 2023

- Alimony deductions. For divorce and separation instruments executed or modified after December 31, 2018, alimony and separate maintenance payments are not deductible by the payor-spouse, nor includible in the income of the payee-spouse.
- State and local income, sales, and real and personal property taxes (SALT) are still limited to $10,000.
- Medical Expense Deduction. The 2023 threshold for deducting medical expenses on Schedule A is 7.5% of your 2023 adjusted gross income (AGI).

CFS Guidance:
If you think you qualify, keep track and see IRS.gov for the IRS list of expenses that qualify as "medical expenses".

Consider All of Your Retirement Savings Options for 2023

If you have earned income or are working, you should consider contributing to retirement plans. This is an ideal time to make sure you maximize your intended use of retirement plans for 2023 and start thinking about your strategy for 2024. For many investors, retirement contributions represent one of the smarter tax moves that they can make. Here are some retirement plan strategies we'd like to highlight.

401(k) contribution limits increased. The elective deferral (contribution) limit for employees under the age of 50 who participate in 401(k), 403(b), most 457 plans, and the federal government's Thrift Savings Plan is $22,500. The catch-up contribution limit for employees aged 50 and over who participate in 401(k), 403(b), most 457 plans, and the federal government's Thrift Savings Plan is increased to $7,500 ($30,000 total). As a reminder, these contributions must be made in 2023.

IRA contribution limits increase. The limit on annual contributions to an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) are increased in 2023 to $6,500 for individuals. The additional catch-up contribution limit for individuals aged 50 and over is not subject to an annual cost-of-living adjustment and remains $1,000 (for a total of $7,500). IRA contributions for 2023 can be made all the way up to the April 15, 2024, filing deadline.

Higher IRA income limits. The deduction for taxpayers making contributions to a traditional IRA is phased out for singles and heads of household who are covered by a workplace retirement plan and have modified adjusted gross incomes (MAGI) of $73,000 to $83,000. For married couples filing jointly, in which the spouse who makes the IRA contribution is covered by a workplace retirement plan, the income phase-out range is $116,000 to $136,000. For an IRA contributor who is not covered by a workplace retirement plan and is married to someone who is covered, the deduction is phased out in 2023 as the couple's income reaches $218,000 and completely at $228,000. For a married individual filing a separate return who is covered by a workplace retirement plan, the phase-out range remains at $0 to $10,000 for 2023. Please keep in mind, if your earned income is less than your eligible contribution amount, your maximum contribution amount equals your earned income.

Increased Roth IRA income cutoffs. The MAGI phase-out range for taxpayers making contributions to a Roth IRA is $218,000 - $228,000 for married couples filing jointly in 2023. For singles and heads of households, the income phase-out range is $138,000 - $153,000. For a married individual filing a separate return, the phase-out range remains at $0 to $10,000. Please keep in mind, if your earned income is less than your eligible contribution amount, your maximum contribution amount equals your earned income.

Larger saver's credit threshold. The MAGI limit for the saver's credit (also known as the Retirement Savings Contribution Credit) for low- and moderate-income workers is $73,000 for married couples filing jointly in 2023, $54,750 for heads of household and $36,500 for all other filers.

Be careful of the IRA one rollover rule. Investors are limited to only one rollover from all their IRAs to another in any 12-month period. A second IRA-to-IRA rollover in a single year could result in income tax becoming due on the rollover, a 10% early withdrawal penalty, and a 6% per year excess contributions tax if that rollover remains in the IRA. Individuals can only make one IRA rollover during any 1-year period, but there is no limit on trustee-to-trustee transfers. Multiple trustee-to-trustee transfers between IRAs and conversions from traditional IRAs to Roth IRAs are allowed in the same year. If you are rolling over an IRA or have any questions on IRAs, please call us.

Our goal is to keep you updated when tax laws change so that you can proactively plan. If you'd like to discuss how these sunsetting rules or any tax law changes may affect your situation, please feel free to contact us and we'd be happy to help.

Roth IRA Conversions

Converting part or all of your traditional IRAs to a Roth IRA isn't a simple decision. While Roth IRA conversions can be helpful, they can also create immediate tax consequences and potential penalties. Under the current laws, you can no longer unwind a Roth conversion by re-characterizing it.

CFS Guidance: You should run the numbers with a qualified professional to determine the most appropriate strategy for your personal situation. Contact us if you would like to review your Roth IRA conversion options.

Capital Gains and Losses

Your investment portfolio may be the source of tax-saving opportunities.

Start by reviewing the various sales you have realized so far this year on stocks, bonds and other investments. Then, review what's left and determine whether these investments have an unrealized gain or loss. (Unrealized means you still own the investment. Realized means you've actually sold the investment.)

Know your basis. To determine if you have unrealized gains or losses, you must know the tax basis of your investments - usually the cost of the investment when you bought it. It gets trickier with investments that allow you to reinvest your dividends and/or capital gain distributions. In your non-IRA accounts that are held with us, Raymond James calculates your cost basis for you and reports it on your statements.

Consider loss harvesting. If your capital gains are larger than your losses, you may want to consider doing some "loss harvesting." This means selling certain investments that will generate a loss. You can use an unlimited amount of capital losses to offset capital gains. However, you are limited to only $3,000 ($1,500 if married filing separately) of net capital losses that can offset other income, such as wages, interest and dividends. Any remaining unused capital losses can be carried forward into future years indefinitely.

CFS Guidance: We review this for you and will discuss it at your next appointment if we think it will be beneficial for you.

Be aware of the "wash sale" rule. If you sell an investment at a loss and then buy it right back, the IRS disallows the deduction. The "wash sale" rule says you must wait at least 30 days before buying back the same security to be able to claim the original loss as a deduction. The deduction is also disallowed if you bought the same security within 30 days before the sale. However, while you cannot immediately buy a substantially identical security to replace the one you sold, you can buy a similar security, perhaps a different stock, in the same sector. This strategy allows you to maintain your general market position while utilizing a tax break.

Always double-check brokerage firm reports. If you sold a security in 2023, the brokerage firm reports the basis on an IRS Form 1099-B in early 2024. Unfortunately, sometimes there could be problems when reporting your information, so we suggest you double-check these numbers to make sure that the basis is calculated correctly and does not result in a higher amount of tax than you need to pay.

Long-term Capital Gains Tax Rates

Tax rates on long-term capital gains and qualified dividends changed for 2023. You may qualify for a 0% capital gains tax rate for some or all long-term capital gains realized in 2023. In 2023, the 0% rate applies for individual taxpayers with taxable income up to $44,625 on single returns, $59,750 for head-of-household filers and $89,250 for joint returns. If this is the case for you, figure out how much long-term capital gains you might be able to recognize to take advantage of this tax break.

2022 Long-term Capital Gains Rate	Single Taxpayers	Married Filing Jointly	Head of Household
0%	Up to $44,625	Up to $89,250	Up to $59,750
15%	$44,625 – $492,300	$89,250 - $553,850	$59,750 - $523,050
20%	Over $492,300	Over $553,850	Over $523,050

SOURCE: irs.gov

The 3.8% surtax on net investment income stays the same for 2023. It starts for single people with modified AGI over $200,000 and for joint filers with modified AGI over $250,000.

NOTE: The 0%, 15% and 20% long-term capital gains tax rates only apply to "capital assets", such as marketable securities, held longer than one year. If you held anything one year or less it's considered a "short-term capital gain" and taxed at ordinary income tax rates.

CFS Guidance: During your review appointment we will evaluate your tax return and provide our advice for whether you should take advantage of any Long-Term Capital Gains.

Charitable Giving

Remember that you can only write off donations to a charitable organization if you itemize your deductions.

Send cash donations to your favorite charity by December 31, 2022. Be sure to hold on to your cancelled check or credit card receipt as proof of your donation. If you contribute $250 or more, you also need a written acknowledgement from the charity.

If you plan to make a significant gift to charity this year, consider gifting appreciated stocks or other investments that you have owned for more than one year. This boosts the savings on your tax returns. Your charitable contribution deduction is the fair market value of the securities on the date of the gift, not the amount you paid for the asset and therefore you avoid having to pay taxes on the profit.

Do not donate investments that have lost value. It's better to sell the asset with the loss first, then donate the proceeds. This allows you to take both the charitable contribution deduction and the capital loss.

Qualified Charitable Distribution (QCD). The law allows taxpayers age 70½ and older to make a Qualified Charitable Distribution (QCD) in the form of a direct transfer of up to $100,000 directly from their IRA over to a charity, including all or part of the required minimum distribution (RMD). If you meet the qualifications to utilize this strategy, the funds must come out of your IRA by December 31, 2022.

CFS Guidance: If you are over 70 ½, a qualified charitable distribution (QCD) from a traditional IRA may be a good option for you. If done correctly, there are ways to reduce your tax burden and give to your favorite organization. If this is a strategy you're considering, please contact the Client Service Team at cfsteam@mycfsgroup.com or 605-357-8553 or 605-352-9490.

Estate, Gift, and Generation-Skipping Tax Changes

For 2023 the limit is $12.92 million ($25.84 million for married couples) and the income tax basis step up/down to fair market value at death is in place. Any amount over that is subject to 40% Federal taxes. This high amount provides high net worth individuals a significant planning window to make gifts and set up irrevocable trusts.

Remember, the estate tax exclusion is due to revert to pre-2018 levels in 2026, (adjusted for inflation, which we project will be about $7 million under current law).

CFS Guidance: Gifting requires careful planning and consideration. If you are thinking about gifting, schedule a meeting with us to ensure your estate and gift tax plans are appropriately executed and ensure your strategy is relevant for the current tax year.
